INTRODUCTION

Council is committed to creating an organisational culture that reflects its corporate values and guiding principles which will enable the community to maintain trust and confidence in Council's operations.

Modern workplaces demand greater customer focus, better risk management and increased emphasis on individual responsibility and the highest levels of accountability. By valuing the differences that our employees contribute to the workplace, Council is able to increase the effectiveness and efficiencies of the services provided to the community.

The Code of Conduct provides a guide to the minimum behaviour standards expected of all employees regardless of employment status, role or position. It is important to ensure the highest standards of integrity underpin Council operations in its entirety. Council's reputation depends upon the conduct of all employees in carrying out their duties and every employee should strive for excellence at all times to enhance Council's public image and business reputation.

It is an expectation that all employees will treat their colleagues, customers and community members in a professional, respectful and courteous manner. Personal feelings should not be allowed to influence our workplace behaviour and by respecting each other, all employees can contribute towards improving work performance and Council's workplace environment.

This Code of Conduct provides advice and guidance for employees in making wise and ethical decisions, especially in circumstances where the 'correct' or 'best' course of action may not be clear. It is a part of Council's official policy. Without exception, all employees are required to adhere to the standards of conduct which the Code outlines.

I encourage all employees to read the Code of Conduct and develop a clear understanding of the ethical principles; obligations and standards that support our daily work our Council.

Mark Crawley
Chief Executive Officer

Jack Bawden
Mayor

OBJECTIVE

The Code of Conduct is a set of standards and behaviours related to the way we do our work. It puts a responsibility on each of us to use sound judgment while at work.

It aims to deliver best practice by ensuring those standards are clear and guided by sound ethics. By consistently applying these standards, we enhance public trust and confidence in each of us. Nothing in this Code interferes with your rights as a private citizen or a ratepayer.

The Code does not cover every situation. However, the values, ethics, standards and behaviours it outlines are a reference point to help make decisions in situations it does not cover. If you act honestly and in good faith, and in keeping with the spirit of the Code, you can expect to be supported by your colleagues, your team leader/supervisor/manager and by Council.

A 'Guide for ethical decision-making' is included at Appendix B to help you in situations not covered by the Code.

COUNCIL STATEMENT

Council conducts its business with integrity, honesty and fairness and complies with all relevant laws, regulations, codes and corporate standards.

Everyone working for Council must follow the highest standards of behaviour when dealing with customers and with each other. Our leaders must encourage a culture where ethical conduct is recognised, valued and followed at all levels.

Council actively supports, encourages and develops its employees to work safely, be customer focused, use technology and Council assets effectively, adapt to changes and improve their own capabilities and contribute to Council's Community, Corporate and Operational Plans.

LEGISLATIVE PRINCIPLES & CORPORATE VALUES

The Public Sector Ethics Act 1994 identifies four ethics principles fundamental to good public administration that guides our behaviour as Public Officials and form the basis for a local government Code of Conduct. The four principles are:

- integrity and impartiality;
- promoting the public good;
- commitment to the system of government; and
- accountability and transparency.

The Local Government Act 2009 sets out the way in which a local government is constituted and the nature and extent of its responsibilities and powers. The Act requires Council's actions are consistent with the following local government principles:

- transparent and effective processes, and decision-making in the public interest; and
- sustainable development and management of assets and infrastructure, and delivery of effective services; and
- democratic representation, social inclusion and meaningful community engagement; and
- good governance of, and by, local government; and
- ethical and legal behaviour of councillors and local government employees.

These legislated principles, together with Council's core values, form the basis of this Code of Conduct. They apply to all employees and guide our thinking, actions and decision-making.

TO WHOM DOES THE CODE APPLY?

All Council employees (regardless of their employment status, role or position – e.g. permanent, temporary/fixed-term, casual or part-time employees, managers, supervisors, team leaders, team members or individuals), contractors and volunteers must be familiar with and follow the spirit and content of the Code of Conduct.

WHEN DOES THE CODE APPLY?

The Code is concerned with our conduct as Public Officials and behaviour as individuals at work and outside the workplace where particular behaviour may be directly related to our employment and Council activities and in other circumstances where our actions may impact upon the reputation and activities of Council.

ETHICAL PRINCIPLES, VALUES, AND CONDUCT

The First Principle – Integrity and impartiality

Public Sector Ethics Act 1994 section 6 states:

“In recognition that public office involves a public trust, public service agencies, public sector entities and Public Officials seek to promote public confidence in the integrity of the public sector and—

- are committed to the highest ethical standards; and
- accept and value their duty to provide advice which is objective, independent, apolitical and impartial; and
- show respect towards all persons, including employees, clients and the general public; and
- acknowledge the primacy of the public interest and undertake that any Conflict of Interest issue will be resolved or appropriately managed in favour of the public interest; and
- are committed to honest, fair and respectful engagement with the community.”

Conflicts of Interest

When making decisions, you must declare any conflicts of interest that could affect your objectivity in carrying out your duties.

A Conflict of Interest involves a conflict between your official duties and responsibilities in serving the public interest and your private interests. A Conflict of Interest can arise from avoiding personal losses as well as gaining personal advantage – whether financial or otherwise. This includes advantages to relatives and friends.

If you believe you have a Conflict of Interest, whether real, potential or perceived, you must tell your team leader/supervisor/manager promptly. Your team leader/supervisor/manager will then provide further direction on how to resolve the matter giving rise to the Conflict of Interest.

Until the matter is resolved, you must make sure you are not part of any decision-making processes related to the matter.

If you feel you have a Conflict of Interest between professional and corporate values, discuss it with your team leader/supervisor/manager.

Where required by Section 292 of the Local Government Regulation 2012 you may be required to supply details of interests to the CEO or Mayor to be included in a Register of Interests and to ensure particulars contained in a Register of Interests remain correct.

Influences on decision-making

You must not influence any person in an improper way with the aim to obtain personal advantage or favours.

All decisions need to be, and be seen to be, fair and transparent. This can be achieved in a number of ways, including clear record-keeping and showing how decisions were made.

You must not in any way misrepresent your qualifications, experience or expertise in any recruitment and selection process.

Appendix B has more information about how to undertake ethical decision making: see ‘A guide to ethical decision-making’.

You must ensure that any contact with lobbyists complies with any policy of Council and the requirements of the Integrity Act 2009 (as outlined at Appendix C).

Accepting Gifts and Benefits

Occasionally you may be offered gifts or benefits from people with whom you do business.

Pursuant to section 199(3) of the Local Government Act 2009, it is an offence for an employee to ask for, or accept, a fee or other benefit for doing something as a local government employee. However, section 199(3) does not apply to remuneration paid by Council or a benefit that has only a nominal value.

The acceptance of gifts or benefits of a nominal value may be permitted in limited circumstances, however as a rule you must not accept any gifts or benefits if there is a possibility that in doing so, you could create a real, potential or perceived Conflict of Interest or be seen to be receiving a bribe.

The test to apply is whether you could be (not whether you are) influenced by your private interests in carrying out your official duties, or whether people are likely to believe that you could be influenced.

For example, ask yourself if accepting the gift or benefit could suggest that the giver may/would receive favourable treatment.

Where required by Section 292 of the Local Government Regulation 2012 senior staff (including the CEO and Councillors) must ensure that gifts are recorded in their Register of Interests.

For further information refer to Council's Gifts and Benefits Policy.

Employment outside Council

It is not Council's intention to stop people from holding secondary employment over and above your official duties as a Council employee. Approval for secondary employment is automatically granted for you to undertake private employment outside of your normal working hours as long as the following requirements are met:

- That no Conflict of Interest exists or develops, between private employment and your official Council duties.
 - That your private employment has no effect on the performance of your official Council duties. This includes effects from a safety/fatigue management perspective.
 - That your private employment does not involve use of Council resources (physical, technological or intellectual); and
 - You must ensure that your work outside Council continues to meet the requirements stated in the Conflict of Interest, Influences on decision-making, and Accepting Gifts and Benefits clauses above; and
 - Pursuant to section 198 of the Local Government Act 2009, where you seek to be employed by more than 1 local government at the same time, approval of each of the local governments is required prior to you being appointed to the second position.
 - Although you do not need written approval if you undertake voluntary work or a hobby you also need to ensure that these activities meet the above requirements. If you are unsure, you should discuss this with your team leader/supervisor/manager.

Public Comments on Council Business

As a general rule, Councillors' comment publicly on Council business. Council business can be topical, sensitive and controversial and there is a process to be followed when making public comments.

If you are asked to comment on any Council matter via the media or other public relations firms, you should first consult with the CEO. As a general rule of thumb, the Mayor is Council's first point of contact with the media and is responsible for statements to the media on behalf of Council.

You must also ensure that to the extent you collect, handle or give access to personal information, you comply with the Privacy Principles outlined under the Information Privacy Act 2009. A copy of the Privacy Principles as applying to Council is outlined at Appendix D.

Advice given to Elected Officials

Communication between Councillors and employees must be in accordance with the CEO's Guidelines on requests to employees for advice to help a Councillor make a decision. Council employees must give elected members (Councillors) advice that is thorough, responsive, objective, independent, apolitical and impartial so that Councillors can make decisions and carry out their community responsibilities.

If you believe there is conflict between a request from an elected official and Council policies, you must discuss this with your team leader/supervisor/manager who will refer the matter to the CEO through the relevant director.

For further information refer to Council's Acceptable Request Guidelines.

External Activities

Council supports and is committed to ensuring all staff are free to engage in trade union, party-political, professional, interest group or charity activities of their choosing. However, you must make sure that your participation in such activities does not cause a Conflict of Interest, and/or unduly restricts the performance of your official duties with Council or adversely impacts on Council's reputation and standing in the community.

You must not allow your involvement in any external organisation to intrude upon your duty as a Council employee to give sound advice to Council that is objective, independent, apolitical and impartial.

You are not to take part in political affairs whilst on duty. Council's IT systems, including internet access and email, Council newsletters and workplaces must not be used for political messages or circulating defamatory or disparaging remarks against individuals or groups.

If you comment publicly in connection with external activities, you must make a clear distinction between your opinion as a member of the external organisation, and your opinion as a Council employee.

You must not use your role in Council, Council information or information gained in the course of your official duties as a Council employee, to advance your position or standing within an external organisation, nor for the benefit or promotion of an external organisation. You must not provide Council information to members of other groups or related persons, except where this information is publicly available.

As a member of an external organisation you need to be aware that participating in activities in the public arena, where you may be identified as a Council employee, can give rise to a perception of Conflict of Interest in some circumstances. Where such a situation arises, you must declare and manage the conflict in accordance with this Code of Conduct.

Social Media

You must not use social media and networking sites to discuss Council issues. Social networking sites are public forums and use of these mediums to display negative comments about Council and other employees will not be tolerated.

Consider these examples of improper conduct:

- A Council employee has an argument with a fellow employee and then uses their Facebook page to insult this individual.
- An employee is not happy with a decision made by Council so they post comments on social media or a personal blog complaining about this decision.
- An employee is on sick leave and they post status updates about how they are pulling a “sickie”
- An employee posts a photo of another employee at a Council function displaying inappropriate behaviour in Council uniform.

Behaviour towards Each Other

We must all treat others with trust, respect, honesty, fairness, sensitivity and dignity and this responsibility extends to work related activities outside normal working hours. Employees who supervise or manage other employees have a special responsibility to model this kind of behaviour, and to ensure that the people they supervise understand the standard of performance and behaviour that is expected of them at work and when dealing with ratepayers and the public generally.

Council values diversity, and expects all its employees, contractors or volunteers to accommodate and respect different opinions and perspectives, and to manage interpersonal disagreements by rational debate. You must not behave towards any other person in a way that could be perceived as intimidating, overbearing or bullying, or that may constitute unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature.

Effective teamwork is an essential part of a productive workplace culture. Each team member needs to work co-operatively with fellow employees and actively and willingly take part in team activities (e.g. meetings).

Behaviour towards Children and Young People

For employees who work with children and young people particularly in regulated areas of employment and for those who may be required to work directly with children or young people during the course of their employment with council, the following standards of behaviour towards children and young people need to be adhered to which include:

Language

- Use encouraging and/or positive words and in a pleasant tone of voice;
- Be open and honest when communicating; and
- For example, it is not appropriate to; insult, criticise or name call; bully, swear or yell at a child or young person; and make sexually suggestive comments and/or jokes.

Relationships

- Be a positive role model;
- Build relationships based on trust;
- Empower children to share in decision making; and
- For example it is not appropriate to; show favouritism or gift giving; spend excessive amounts of time alone with children; bully or harass; or act in a way which would give a reasonable person cause for concern that any meeting with the child or young person arising from the conduct would be for unlawful purposes.

Physical contact

- Allow for personal space;
- It is permissible to touch due to medical emergency or to protect from physical harm;
- Should be non-threatening; and
- For example, it is not appropriate to; use violent or aggressive behaviour including hitting, kicking, slapping or pushing; and kiss or touch in a sexual nature.

Other Behaviours

- Wear appropriate attire/clothing for your role;
- Use the internet and/or mobile phone for work related purposes only.

Non-discriminatory workplace

Council is an equal opportunity employer and as such is proactive in ensuring that its practices do not discriminate based on an attribute, or based on a person's association with another person who maintains an attribute relating to:-

- race/ethnicity;
- gender;
- national origin;
- marital status;
- sexual preference/lawful sexual activity;
- age;
- disability/impairment, including infectious disease;
- industrial/employment activity;
- physical features;
- pregnancy;
- family responsibilities;
- religious beliefs;
- political conviction;
- breast feeding; or
- gender identity.

As an employee of Council, you have a shared responsibility to ensure that discrimination is not part of our workplace or our practices in dealing with other employees, residents, ratepayers and the public generally. If you witness discriminatory behaviour you have a positive obligation to report such actions to your supervisor or manager, or if such action involves your supervisor or manager, another senior officer. Proven cases of unlawful discrimination may lead to disciplinary action taken against offending employees.

Sexual and other forms of Workplace Harassment

Council is also committed to the prevention of any form of sexual harassment, victimisation or other forms of bullying in the workplace, or at any place where work-related activities are performed, including at social functions. This commitment applies to all employees in their relationships with each other, to applicants for employment at Council and to persons who have dealings with Council.

As an employee of Council, it is expected that you proactively contribute to building a workplace that is free from sexual harassment, victimisation and bullying. You have a joint responsibility to respect the rights of fellow employees, by not taking part in any action that may constitute harassment of any form, and in doing so supporting and promoting the achievement of equal employment opportunity.

Some examples of behaviour which may constitute either sexual harassment or workplace bullying includes:-

- Acting towards, or speaking to a person in a manner which threatens or vilifies that person;
- Deliberately excluding a particular individual from relevant work related activities or functions;
- Making jokes, suggestive comments or offensive gestures related to a person's race, appearance, colour, ethnic origin, disability, gender, sexual characteristics, or a personal appearance;
- Distribution or display of sexually explicit material (including through email) which may be offensive, including posters, pictures or MPEGs, racist or sexist jokes or cartoons;
- Persistent questions about a person's private life;
- Personal comments about appearance, size, clothing;
- Demands for sexual favours, either directly or by implication;
- Unwanted and deliberate physical contact;
- Indecent assault, rape and other criminal offences.

For further information refer to Council's Workplace Anti Bullying and Harassment and Equal Employment Opportunity Policies.

The Second Principle – Promoting the Public Good

Public Sector Ethics Act 1994 section 7 states:

“In recognition that the public sector is the mechanism through which the elected representatives deliver programs and services for the benefit of the people of Queensland, public service agencies, public sector entities and Public officials –

- accept and value their duty to be responsive to both the requirements of government and to the public interest; and
- accept and value their duty to engage the community in developing and effecting official public sector priorities, policies and decisions; and
- accept and value their duty to manage public resources effectively, efficiently and economically; and
- value and seek to achieve excellence in service delivery; and
- value and seek to achieve enhanced integration of services to better service clients.”

Customer Service

As a Council employee it is expected that you will strive to provide excellent customer service regardless of your position in Council. You must treat members of the public equitably and with honesty, fairness, sensitivity and dignity.

All Council employees serve ratepayers directly or indirectly. If your role in Council involves regular contact with the public, it is important to know how to deal comfortably and calmly with difficult situations and difficult people.

You are expected to treat complaints from customers, ratepayers, and the community or fellow employees seriously and respond to constructive feedback as an opportunity for improvement.

Customers have a right to complain or criticise Council. Council expects its employees to show respect towards complainants. While you must make all reasonable efforts to help customers lodge complaints, if you think a situation is threatening or intimidating, you are entitled to withdraw from the situation. If in doubt, ask for assistance from a more experienced colleague, or a team leader/supervisor/manager. Council will support any employee who believes they are under threat from a member of the public.

Council's image can be impacted by the presentation of staff. Council requires its employees to appear neat and tidy and maintain a professional business standard of dress. If you are unsure about what constitutes appropriate dress please discuss this with your manager or consult Councils' Corporate Clothing Policy. Where you have been provided with Council uniforms, you are required to wear all components of the uniform without alteration (other than alterations designed to ensure a proper fit) and ensure that uniforms are clean and tidy. If you are a manager you are expected to ensure that staff are appropriately presented at all times.

Fairness to suppliers

Council's contracting activities are regulated pursuant to Chapter 6 of the Local Government Regulation 2012. Further, Council has established procedures and delegations of authority for various stages of procurement of goods and services which reflect the provisions of the Local Government Regulation 2012. You must comply with the Local Government Regulation 2012, Council's Procurement Policy and Council procedures when seeking suppliers for goods or services.

If you have been approved to be involved in offering contracts or buying goods and services from outside Council, you must be sure you have taken reasonable, fair and consistent steps to allow all potential suppliers to bid for work.

You also need to ensure that you do not incur any liability or enter into any contract on behalf of Council, or alter the terms or conditions of any contract which Council has already entered, unless you are authorised to do so.

Public money

You must maintain high standards of accountability if you are responsible for the collection and/or safe custody of public money.

You are not to borrow or use Council money for private purposes. This also applies to items such as corporate cards or vouchers.

Officers using Council monies for the purpose of entertainment and/or hospitality expenditure on Council's behalf must do so strictly in accordance with Council's Entertainment and Hospitality Policy.

Intellectual property

Council expects its employees to ensure that their actions do not breach or infringe the Copyright Act 1968, by unlawfully using the intellectual property of any individual or organisation.

You must respect the copyrights, trademarks and patents of suppliers and other organisations outside Council and which includes that you do not reproduce or quote suppliers' material unless your license specifically allows it. Similarly, you must not store or copy audio, video or image files, printed media and software on Council assets without an appropriate license or approval. Where this is unclear you must seek written approval before arranging to publish, disclose or reproduce any articles or materials as part of your official duties.

Any original work, invention or product you have contributed to in association with your official duties as a Council employee remains the property of Council. Similarly, you must not publish or disclose any matters relating to Council's intellectual property without appropriate authority. This does not stop you from sharing with other organisations information relating to your official duties. However, if you do, and if you are unaware of whether such action may breach this Code, you must first seek clarification from your supervisor/manager.

Concern for the environment and cultural heritage

We all share the responsibility to protect our natural environment, creating healthy surroundings for our community, and for managing the impacts of air, water, land and noise pollution. This includes individual responsibility for our own actions (e.g. taking care in disposing of waste and using and storing chemicals, reducing energy consumption and waste in our work spaces where we can and applying high standards of environmental protection across the region).

In performing your duties at Council, you must ensure that you comply with your general environmental duty and, where applicable, your duty to notify of environmental harm: Refer to Chapter 7, Part 1 of the Environmental Protection Act 1994.

As part of every employee's duty of care to the community there exists a responsibility to recognise and minimise damage to cultural heritage sites both recognised and potential. Employees must follow Council policies and procedures to avoid any damage to any potential cultural heritage site.

The Third Principle – Commitment to the system of government

Public Sector Ethics Act 1994 section 8 states: In recognition that the public sector has a duty to uphold the system of government and the laws of the State, Commonwealth and local government, public service agencies, public sector entities and Public officials -

- accept and value their duty to uphold the system of government and the laws of the state, the Commonwealth and local government; and
- are committed to effecting official public sector priorities, policies and decisions professionally and impartially; and
- accept and value their duty to operate within the framework of Ministerial responsibility to government, the Parliament and the community.

Subsection (1) does not limit the responsibility of a public service agency, public sector entity or Public official to act independently of government if the independence of the agency, entity or official is required by legislation or government policy, or is a customary feature of the work of the agency, entity or official

Acting within the law

As an employee of Council, you are expected to comply with applicable legislation, awards, certified agreements, Council policies and local laws.

You have the right and responsibility to respectfully question how you do your work, particularly if you think there is an imminent risk to the safety of yourself or others, or there is a better way of doing something, or if you think that a direction may be in breach of the law. When you have recorded your suggestion or concern you are required to work as directed by your team leader/supervisor/manager, except where there is an imminent risk to safety. If the matter cannot be resolved within the workgroup, it should be immediately referred to your manager.

If you are charged with having committed any indictable offence, are subject to an indictable offence conviction, or are subject to a summary conviction, you should immediately report the circumstances to your manager. Such disclosure will be treated confidentially.

Acting in accordance with delegations and signing documents on behalf of Council

If you are requested to undertake an action on behalf of the CEO or Council, prior to exercising any power on behalf of the CEO you must ensure there exists an appropriate delegation pursuant to State of Federal legislation that allows you to exercise the power.

Raising concerns

You have the right to comment on or raise concerns with your team leader/supervisor/manager about Council policies, practices or priorities where they impact on your employment. However, you must do this in a reasonable and constructive way and take responsibility for your comments and views. Further, you must accept that Council has the right to determine its policy, practices and priorities and that you must comply with all reasonable and lawful instructions, whether or not you personally agree with a given policy direction.

When raising complaints or grievances, employees are expected to act with honesty and in good faith. Complaints that are considered vexatious or frivolous will not be progressed, and such complaints may be managed as acts of misconduct in accordance with the Council's Disciplinary Policy.

Privacy

Council maintains information about individuals, businesses and commercial issues which is private and sensitive and which could be harmful to a person's interest if released. Employees should only access personal information and records they require to perform their official Council duties.

Employees must ensure that the collection, storage and use of personal information is done so in accordance with the Privacy Principles outlined pursuant to the Information Privacy Act 2009. A copy of the Privacy Principles is outlined at Appendix D.

As a general rule you can maintain privacy by:

- not discussing work matters with persons not entitled to know such information; and
- not disclosing system passwords to others; and
- taking responsibility to safeguard confidential files and information; and
- ensuring collected information is only used in a manner consistent with the purpose for which it was originally collected; and
- ensuring that you complying with Council policy in relation maintaining privacy of personal information.

It may be appropriate to share information based on your personal and professional experience (e.g. in seminars or training programs). However, in sharing your experiences, you must ensure that where personal information is involved, you don't breach Council's privacy obligations. You may breach this obligation even if comments are made or personal information other than your own is shared in your personal life, including via social media outlets.

In addition to the Information Privacy Act 2009, section 200 of the Local Government Act 2009 makes it an offence for a person who is, or has been, a Council employee to release information that the person knows, or should reasonably know, is information that:-

- is confidential to Council; and
- Council wishes to keep confidential.

Personal and other information may on occasion be sought from Council by an employee or other members of the public pursuant to the Right to Information Act 2009. If such a request is made of you, you must ensure that you refer such requests to the CEO to be properly considered.

The Fourth Principle – Accountability and transparency

Public Sector Ethics Act 1994 section 9 states:

In recognition that public trust in public office requires high standard of public administration, public service agencies, public sector entities and public officials -

- are committed to exercising proper diligence, care and attention; and
- are committed to using public resources in an effective and accountable way; and
- are committed to managing information as openly as practicable within the legal framework; and
- value and seek to achieve high standards of public administration; and
- value and seek to innovate and continuously improve performance; and
- value and seek to operate within a framework of mutual obligation and shared responsibility between public services agencies, public sector entities and Public Officials.

Using Council assets

Council's assets include property, plant, equipment, information systems, computing resources, goods, products and/or valuables (this includes surplus material, waste material and off-cuts). All employees share the responsibility for looking after them.

If you are in charge of assets you must take good care of them while they are in your possession or use, and ensure they are used economically and efficiently. It is an offence to misuse or allow anyone else to misuse Council assets. You must make sure assets are secured against theft and properly stored, maintained and repaired.

You must ensure that you use Council assets only for official Council business, unless written approval has been granted by your manager.

You must not store personal files on Council's IT assets. Any files stored on, or information accessed using Council assets, are discoverable by Council.

You can use telephones on a limited basis for local calls that you cannot make conveniently outside working hours.

If you use Council vehicles or a Council issued mobile telephone for non-official purposes, you must ensure that your use is in accordance with Council policy.

Council allows limited personal use of email and internet browsing. Limited personal use means use that is infrequent and brief, and is performed during your non-paid time, that is, before and after work or during meal breaks.

Upon your employment terminating with Council, you must return all Council property and work-related documents immediately.

Diligence, care and attention

Council aims to conduct its business with integrity, honesty and fairness and to achieve the highest standards in service delivery. You contribute to this aim by carrying out your duties honestly, responsibly, in a conscientious manner and to the best of your ability. This includes:

- maintaining punctuality and not being absent from your work station/location during work time without reason;
- giving priority to official duties over personal activities during work time;

- ensuring you do not undertake personal work during work time;
- not wasting time chatting about personal matters and interrupting other staff;
- helping Council achieve its mission and goals by acting to improve systems and practices;
- conducting yourself in a way so others gain confidence and trust in the way Council does business;
- not allowing your conduct to distract or prevent others from working;
- not exposing Council to a judgment for damages against it, as a result of your negligence or breach of any law or policy.

If you are responsible for managing or supervising others, you must also ensure that:

A Conflict of Interest can arise from either gaining a personal advantage or avoiding a personal loss. Conflicts of interest can be real (actual) or perceived (apparent).

- Would a reasonable person think you used your powers or position improperly?
- Would the public see your action or decision as honest and impartial?
- Do you face a Conflict of Interest?
- Will your decision or action stand up to public scrutiny?

- Ask your team leader/supervisor/manager, or any person who is able to give sound, relevant advice.
- What options and consequences are consistent with Council's values, the five local government principles, the four ethics principles fundamental to good public administration and your obligations?
- What are the costs and long-term consequences of each option?
- How would the public view each option?
- What will be the outcome for Council, your colleagues, others and you?

Step 5: choose your course of action.

Make sure your actions are:

- within your power to take, legal and in line with policy and this Code;
- fair and able to be justified to your manager and the public;
- documented so a statement of reasons can be supplied;
- consistent with Council's mission, goals and values; and
- backed by advice from Council specialists, if this is appropriate.
